HALLOWE'EN OBSERVED IN SAFE MANNER HERE

No Damage Done in Evening of Charleroi Celebration

MANY IN MASQUERADE

Costuming Varies From Ridiculous to Artistic—Important Parade Arranged

Charleroi enjoyed a safe and sane celebration of Hallowe'en Thursday night. With that kind of practical joke which was conspicious by its absence nearly everybody was in masquerade. Hobgoblins were there to frighten witches with their slender broomsticks to bewitch ghosts, Indians, Persians, plain cowboys, cowgirls, the doughty Turk and angry Balkan, Uncle Sams, huge fathers and tiny mothers, boys with girls' clothes on—all these and more were clothes on—al these and more were to be seen. In every make-up there was a laugh.

Staid men folks and staid women folks coudn't resist the temptation to get into the fun. Charles O. Frye borrowed a big drum from John Jenkins and with the aid of a couple of lieutenants started a procession over the main streets of the town. The funny part of it was that he succeeded in making it go. A band said to be composed mainly of members of the Charleroi Italian band in masquerade, paraded the streets and secured a good following.

All told the celebration was a peach, a pippin, a glorious exuberant event. Without preparation or organization the affair went off in a characteristic fashion proving conclusively that Charleroi doesn't even have to go in for a celebration to have even one of the biggest kind.

SIX OF BILLS CUT ONE-THIRD BY GOVERNMENT

The man who likes to display a roll of money that looks like a rolling pin has trouble ahead, for from the end of 1913 all bills issued by the national treasury will be one-third smaller than the present size, which has been in vogue since the Civil war.

It will take about a year to make the 1,000 new plates that will be used, and when these are finished the new issue will be printed. It is estimated that the reduction in size will save the government $1,000,000 a year.

Two Men Hurt.

HUNTERS OUT EARLY TO GET FIRST GAME

With the relization that the early Nimrod gets the choice shots, hunters from all parts are gumshoeing the backwoods sections today for game. The game season opened today, it might be said, with a rush. The rush was to the country populated by rabbits, quail and other animals and birds that make good targets, Scores of hunters from along the Monongahela valley have made an advance into the Marianna region in this county and other sections that are equally good for hunting purposes and also into Greene county. Thursday night regardless of the fact that it was Hallowe'en the Pittsburg railroads stations were crowded with men and dogs who were anxious to make their getaway into the hills to be ready this morning for the first day's hunt. Numerous hunters have gone out from Charleroi and vicinity.

The game season today opens on English, Mongolian, Chinese and ringneck pheasants, rabbits, quail, ruffed grouse or pheasant, squirrel and wild turkey.

SCHOOL BUILDING WITH ITS CONTENTS BURNED TO GROUND

Approximate Loss From McMahon Fire $6,000—Was Voting Place—County Must Make Provisions for Election

Starting form unknown causes the McMahon school building situated at the head of Ninth street just outside Monessen borough was burned to the ground with all its contents this morning shortly after 3 o'clock entailing a total loss of about $6,000. Not only has school been brought to a sudden stop in McMahon but election affairs have become tangled, the school building being the polling place. The cause of the fire is unknown but authorities are secretly investigating.

The first alarm of fire was sounded at 3:15. By that time the flames had gained a great start. The fire department of Monessen got to the scene as rapidly as possible, but was not able to get a connection made until the building a frame structure was practically a wreck.

This morning it was stated that a bottle of oil had been found a the premises. This is taken to be significent by the authorities. The loss in the destruction of the building would approximate $1,000, with the contents valuel at $2,000. The fire started in the rear of the building according to one of the directors who was among the first on the scene.

The county authorities will make provisions for the voting place immediately, so that matters can be in readiness for next Tuesday.

LOCAL DEMOCRATS TO HOLD A RALLY HERE ON SATPRDAY

According to arangements perfected by the Democratic National Committee tomorrow, Saturday, November 2, has been officially designated as "Wilson Rally Day." On that occasion all Democratic organizations throughout the United States are urged to hold rallies wherever possible and to get together for a final effort in behalf of their party. For this occasion Woodrow Wilson has issued a special message to the people of the United States be presented and read to all the clubs, organizations and wherever there may be assembled those who are interested in the election of Wilson and the success of the Dmocratic ticket.

In keping with the proclamation for the observance of "Wilson Day," the Charleroi Wilson and Marshall club will hold a special meeting at their headquarters on the third floor of the Masonic building, corner of McKean avenue and Fifth street tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. At this meeting Governor Wilson's message will be read by R. Dale Jolliffe, the secretary of the club and plans discussed for getting out the vote at the election. A cordial invitation is extended to all interested in the election of the Democratic ticket to attend, and this will in all probability be the final public rally of workers before the election.

CONTROLLER HOLDS UP THE PAY OF THE RECORDER

Upon advice of his counsel, Acheson & Grumrine, the controller, John H. Moffitt has disapproved the bill of J. C. Sutherland, county recorder, for $1,000 on account of the retranscribing of certain mortgage indices. The legality of the contract entered into with the recorded by the county commissioners, but not approved by the controller, is questioned. It is likely that the matter will reach court in the form of a mandamus upon the county controller to show cause why he should not approve a warrant in favor of the recorder for the $1,000 on account of this re-transcribing.

Upon petition of the recorder the court recently handed down an opinion authorizing the retranscribing of certain mortgage indices in the recorder's office for the reason that the old indices had become worn out, and were in danger of falling to pieces. The court refused to fix any compensation for the work of retranscribing these indices, but left the matter with the commissioners and controller. A contract was drawn up by the commissioners and recorded, wherein the recorder was to be paid six and one-half cents a line for the work of retranscribing these indices.

This contract was put up to the controller and acting upon advice of counsel, he refused to approve the same. He holds that under the law the recorder himself is not entitled to any extra fee for this kind of work that he can simply supervise the work or exact a bond from persons who do the work—but that he cannot receive any extra compensation for the same. Considerable of the work has been done, and the recorder now wants $1,000 on account of the contract. The controller refuses to approve the warrant. He holds that having refused to approve the warrant, that would mean the approval of the contract. The controller also holds that competive bids should have been received for doing the work. Solicitor Baum has been out of town, but the commissioners will at once endeavor to have some ruling from the court.

There are also held up, by reason of disapproval by the controller, two bills of Sheriff R. G Lutton for certain fees alleged due him. These two bills amount to $120 and $45, respectively. Acting upon advice of counsel, the controller disapproved the warrants for these sums, raising the point of the legality of the claims of the sheriff. It is likely that a candamus will be secured upon the controller in these cases, also and the question raised be put up to the court for a decision.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS TO EXEMPLIFY DEGREE

Two Thousand Visitors Expected to Come Here Sunday

WILL RUN SPECIAL CARS

Pittsburgers to be Here in Force—State Officials in Charge of Ritual

Several thousand Knights of Columbus from Pittsburg and various parts of Western Pennsylvania will gather in Charleroi Sunday when the Third Degree of the order will be conferred upon a class of 150 candidates from Monongahela Council of Pittsburg, Chartiers Council of Crafton, Washington and Charleroi Councils. These councils comprise the twenty-first district and the degree meeting will be in charge of District Deputy Supreme Knight Dr. R. A. Walsh, of Crafton. Grand Knight M. T. Crowley of Charleroi is the chairman on arrangements and will open the meeting at 2 o'clock.

The exemplification of the ritual will be by State Deputy M. J. McEnery of Philadelphia and his degree team at the Charleroi skating rink. The afternoon exercises will be conducted at 6 o'clock.

Following the conferring of the degree a banquet will be served in the Might auditorium. District Deputy A. S. McSwigan, of the third district at Pittsburg will be the toastmaster. He will be introduced by M. T. Crowley, grand knight of the Charleroi Council. There will be plates for 600. Toastmaster McSwigan has mapped out the following program for this banquet; "Catholic Citizenship," T. P. Sloan, chancellor Charleroi Council; "A Knight's Duty," T. F. Dunn, grand knight of Chartiers Council; "Chivalry," Judge A. B. Reid, of Duquesne Council; "Some Stray Thoughts," District Deputy M. J. McEnery; "Our Order," P. J. McArdle, grand knight Monongahela Council; "A Few Remarks," Patrick Yorke of Washington Council. Geo. P. Luther, a Pittsburg caterer, will prepare the banquet.

Special cars will be run to Charleroi by the Monongahela Council of Pittsburg; the Chartiers Council, the Duquesne Council; the Washington Council, the Allegheny Council and the Sharpsburg Council. Monessen, Braddock, McKeesport, Uniontown, Scottdale, Connellsville, Greensburg and other points in Western Pennsylvania will contribute to the crowd that will be here

Doesn't Care For Himself

President Taft Interested Only for Party Success at Coming Election

"There is not one item of personal interest or selfishness in the desire of President Taft to be returned to the presidential chair," said Gov. Tener after the Republican rally held here Wednesday night. "The last time I was with hom at Altoona a few weeks ago, I made it a point to ask the President as to his personal interest in his election.

"'I don't care a rap for myself whether I get elected or not,' was the answer the President gave. 'It is my desire because of my party that I be elected. Nothing more, indeed, I assure you.'"

ENTERTAIN AT COSTUME PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Jack were host and hostss to a pretty Hallowe'en costume party at their home at 230 Washington avenue last evening. All the guests were in costume and there was much guessing as well as merriment as to individual irentities until the time came for unmasking. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion and was in keeping with the Hallowe'en spirit. By means of special wiring electric jack-o-lanters shed a golden glow of light while corn shocks stationed about the handsomely appointed dining room, where black cat and witch decorations with nuts, apples and a keg of cider on tap gave a realistic touch to the scene. Five hundred was the diversion of the evening, after which a Dutch lunch was served in picnic style. At each place were unique Hallowe'en favors, a witch for the ladies and an imp for the men. Appropriate Halowe'en favors were also awarded the players. It was a prettily arranged affair and the twenty or more guests who attended were most enjoyably entertained.

HOW EFFORT COUNTS.

The spontaneous and voluntary efforts of one or two citizens in organizing a parade of the "mummers" on the streets last evening shows how little is required to bring order out chaos and to concentrate and prolong the holiday spirit in rational and orderly channels. All that was necessary was for some one to get a drum, beat it and call to the masked and fantastically arrayed crowds to fall in. This was done with alacrity and a pleasing spectarle was acorded to the spectators, as well as opportunity afforded to the merry-makers to exhibit their costumes and give vent to their exubrience of spirits in a spectacular manner.

Some three years ago a sum of money was raised for the purpose of celebrating Hallowe'en in Charleroi. It was successful in point of attracting a crowd of "mummers" and masqueraders, but the disbursements of the funds and some of the regulations caused a slight dissatisfaction, and the effort was not repeated. Many were of the opinion that it cost too much, and since that time nothing has been done to organize or direct the carnival spirit that breaks out annually on Hallowe'en.

The experience of last night however, demonstrates that a veritable street carnival and parade can be organized at any time on such occasions without expense if only some one takes the lead. All that is required is a leader, with a drum or one or two musical instruments and the masked crowds will readily follow. This keeps the crowd moving in orderly channels, and prevents a too boisterous spirit on spots which is usually the case if the crowds congregate on such occasions in any one locality. All that is necessary hereafter to make a pleasing event of Hallowe'en is a few citizens to [illegible] previously and direct affairs and the masqueraders and spectators will get more pleasure and enjoyment from the celebration.

TARIFF STILL VITAL.

A writer in the Philadelphia Press warns the people not to ignore the tariff as an issue, which is still vital to the interests of our state. The opponents of President Taft, he says, are making every effort in their power to belittle the efforts of a protective tariff on our manufacturing interests and on the wages of our working people. They assert that a high tariff is a detriment to our foreign trade and that the last panics originated under Republican administrations. Yet, when we closely study and ascertain the prosperity of our country in the different periods of the so-called revenue or low tariff and the high tariff periods, we find that invariably sooner or later the low tariff periods ended in a panic. She manufacturers closed their works or greatly reduced the wages of their employes, and the revenue of the Government fell off, creating a deficit, compelling the United States Government to borrow money to pay current expenses.

The United States always made more rapid progress, our treasury was more plethoric and our foreign trade increased faster under a protective tariff than under a so-called revenue tariff. Therefore it is to be hoped that the people and especially our working people, will be wise enough not to let themselves be deceived by the specious pleas of the wily free traders, and by the misrepresentations of the acts of President Taft, or by the demagogic talk and the false and malicious charges by Col. Roosevelt of the National Convention having defrauded him out of the Republican nomination for President.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

There is nothing very pathetic and nothing very ludicrous either in seeing a professional house mover pick up a house and, figuratively, carry it off. To see a dark-faced beauty from a Southern Europe home pick up what for needs of convenience in description might be termed a house, gently put it in position on her head and carry it off is both a pathetic and ludicrous sight. Pathetic because the poor woman has to perform the arduous task instead of her dutiful better half; ludicrous because of the preposterousness and uniqueness of the thing.

Yet yesterday afternoon a woman was seen doing that very thing. Short and stout she was one whom sensible husband would take care not to anger. She got her "house," a big box nearly five square feet at a store somewhere up street. It was a heavy affair. She didn't mind it and with an ease that indicated her training at that kind of thing swung it to the logical place to carry which in her estimation was her head. Then she trudged down street, keeping the box in position with a muscular grip on eother side.

She seemed to think her performance nothing unusual. Perhaps it wasn't to her, used to the ways of the country from which she came. But the sight was one that tok the breath away from all beholders here.

With his best girl clinging to his arm a youth who had adopted the latest fashion of mustache, that cute little upper lip adornment with the sideburn attachment, meandered down street to see the Hallowe'en masqueraders. Apparently he was very proud of his accomplishment—said accomplishment being that of raising the mustache—and the vainglorious way in which he handled himself was almost painful.

He would have been all right perhaps if he hadn't had to pass a drug store where a group of his friends were gathered. The mustache was too much for them.

"Hey,——, take it off, we know yuh," called one.

The youth blushed. And so did the lovely creature by his side.

"Oh wasn't that rude of him," she said.

Then concealing her laughter she [illegible] "Because you lose take the [illegible] off I don't like it."

Today the mustache is [illegible] by its absence.

GREAT HORN SPOONS.

The Ones That Are Made by Natives of Southern Alaska.

Horns of the Rocky mountain sheep the buffalo and the mountain goat are made into dishes, ladles and spoons Some of these are carved, while others are both carved and inlaid with shell The decoration is sometimes geometric, but often a conventional representation of animal forms. This is especially true of the spoons of the Indians on the coast of northern British Columbia and southern Alaska. A few of these spoons are so large, so wonderfully artistic and so well made from the horn of the rare Rocky mountain sheep that even a moderately good one may appropriately be called a "great horn spoon." These are of a rich golden yellow color. By far the greatest number of horn spoons in this same region are made of the horn of the mountain goat, and these are black. A few have black handles of goat horn and golden bowls of sheep horn. All these handles are usually carved to represent traditional or mythical men, animals or monsters belonging to the lore of the individual family, just as among our people silver spoons bear the family monogram.—Detroit Free Press.

Church Tower Belfries.

Probably you have noticed that the openings in the belfry of a church are usually filled with a number of slanting boards, sometimes covered with lead. These are improperly called louvres, and many persons imagine that they are so arranged as to keep out the rain. The right name for these slats is abatsons, a word that means to throw down.

Their use is not to keep out the rain, because the wet does not hurt the bells at all and rain can beat in through the openings very easily. They are designed to turn the sound of the bells downward, so that persons on the ground can hear them better. In the middle ages some of these abatsons were beautifully carved and decorated.—New York Press.

Mr. Roosevelt, dated Nov. 8, 1904

"On the 4th day of March next I shall have served three and one-half years and this three and one-half years constitutes my first term. The wise custom which limits the President to two terms regards the substance and not the form. Under no circumstances will I be a candidate for or accept another nomination."

"What Washington would not take, and Grant could not [illegible]"

ABUSE.

(Editorial in the New York World.)

Standing before a committee of the United States Senate yesterday, Medill McCormick, a rich young man who has helped to finance and manage the Roosevelt campaign, charged that the murderous assault on Mr. Roosevelt was incited by the "falsehoods of character assassins and liars like Charles D. Hilles," who was formerly secretary to President Taft, and is now Chairman of the Republican National Committee.

The rantings of a half-baked young person like Mr. McCormick would be of no importance if they were not so completely in harmony with the conduct of the Roosevelt managers since Mr Roosevelt was shot by a madman. Dixon, Pinchot, McCormick, Cochems and a whole chorus of demagogues have been seeking to inflame the public mind against better men than themselves and create the impression that Schrank's insane deed was inspired by political "abuse" of Mr. Roosevelt.

Now, it happens that there has been a good deal of abuse in this campaign, but most of it originated with Theodore Roosevelt and his followers. No other candidate for President ever indulged in such sweeping denunciation of his opponents. No other candidate for President ever attacked a President as Mr. Roosevelt has attacked Mr. Taft. No other candidate for President ever appealed so frankly to the passion and frenzy of his audiences. To select a few of many examples:

Day after day Mr. Roosevelt has compared President Taft to a "crook," to a "thief," to a "burglar," to a "pirate," to a "pickpocket," to a "receiver of stolen goods," and Hiram Johnson, Mr. Roosevelt's associate on the ticket, has traveled from one end of the country to the other calling President Taft "the most humiliating figure in American history." Even the day that he was shot Mr. Roosevelt denounced the conduct of the Governor of Illinois as "infamous" because Governor Deneen refused to support Mr. Roosevelt on a third party ticket.

June 3 Mr. Roosevelt said of President Taft that "high-minded and honorable men would refuse to accept delegates" such as Mr. Taft had gained in Ohio.

June 8 he said that "again and again we have sent to the penitentiary election officials for deeds not one whit worse morally than was done by the members of the national committee" in seating two Taft delegates from Alabama.

June 11 he declared that Mr. Taft's attitude toward the presidency "comes dangerously near being treason."

June 15 he asserted that the contest between himself and Mr. Taft for the nomination was a "fight between honesty and dishonesty."

June 16 he issued a statement that rang with the words "theft" and "stealing" and "fraud."

June 17 in a speech he spoke of the 'naked thefts' of the national committee and the men who had "earned Mr Taft's gratitude by stealing for him." He said a majority of the national committee had "practiced political theft in every form from highway robbery to petit larceny."

When Mr Taft was finally nominated he publicly insulted him as "the beneficiary of a successful fraud," and his speech on his recent Western trip was to overthrow the President of the United States as "a dead weight in the pit."

As for Woodrow Wilson, Mr Roosevelt [illegible] of the Democratic party [illegible] corrupt [illegible] for Wilson's victory of the Democratic People's Party. The whole thing [illegible] a combination for [illegible] tion

We [illegible] only because of the [illegible] and demagogic attempt of Mr. Roosevelt's political managers to [illegible] a reign of terror against everybody who has opposed his election. Mr McCormick's shocking assault upon Mr Hilles is a fair sample of the manners and methods which cannot be allowed to go unchallenged. It is on a par with Mr Cochem's assault on Mr Bryan as an "oratorical gravedigger," whose statements are "shameless" and "ghoulish," all because Mr. Bryan protested against the scheme to make partisan capital out of the murderous attack of a maniac

Mr. Roosevelt was not shot because of "abuse." If anybody had been shot because of abuse the victim would have been William Howard Taft, President of the United States, and not Theodore Roosevelt.

Let us keep the record straight.

ADVERTISE IN THE MAIL

RAINBOW IS A BACK NUMBER

"The rainbow isn't in it now with the socks worn by men," said, between stations, an elevated railroad guard to his neighbor on the platform, and he continued:

"Just glance in there, will you, and let your eye range along at the men's feet. Purple, green, yellow, blue, red, gray, pink and black socks, and socks of one color with spots of another and socks with stripes in 'em and crossbars and socks of various colors mixed, and I'll bet with all those colors that knock heck out of the rainbow you see that one pair there with no color in 'em plainest of all? Sure. It's that pair of white socks, the only pair in the car; and you might travel here day after day and not see another pair.

"They tell me, and I can just remember a little of it myself, that there was a time when men didn't wear anything but white socks. White socks, and maybe some gray, and then they came to black, but who'd have thought they'd ever come to this? I tell you—" and he broke off to yell: "Umpty-ump stree—t! Umpty-ump stree—t!"

"The rainbow's a back number now," he added.

Passing of the Spare Room.

Fifty years ago nearly every house in New York City had one or more guest chambers. Today half her inhabitants rise at an unusual hour to permit their beds to be turned into parlor furniture or piano fortes. If Cousin Mary or Cousin John realized all this as, of course, no one who has not lived in a great city can really realize it, they would understand better just why they had not been invited to visit Tom's folks. It is not because Tom and his wife wish to slight Mary and her husband that they have not invited them to visit them in the city, but because positively the city cousins have not enough more room in their tiny apartment for even so much as a canary bird. On the other hand, John and his wife probably have a great twelve-room house in the country, a house whose latch-string is known to be always hanging out.—Woman's Home Companion.

Luxury on Shipboard

Sumptuously furnished vessels were known centuries ago. The ship that Archimedes designed for Hiero II., king of Syracuse, not only was wonderfully decorated—the story of the land was told in marquetry, but there were floored beds on the promenade deck, a gymnasium, staterooms with three beds, a library, bathroom with hot and cold water, stables and horses, fish ponds and many fair rooms paved with agate and precious stones. And this vessel was designed as a carrier of wheat. It was first named the Syracusan, but afterward the Alexandrian. Archimedes wrote a poem in its honor, and Hiero, in gratitude and appreciation, sent him a thousand measures of cheese and thoughtfully prepaid the expense. Moschion gives a detailed description of this ship. Then there was the Egyptian vessel, the joy of Ptolemy Philopator, with galleries and promenades, a temple of Venus with her statue, a drinking hall, belvederes, a grotto the sides of which were decorated with precious stones set in ornaments of gold.—Boston Herald.

HIDEOUS PUNISHMENTS.

Murderers Were Once Buried Alive Tied to Their Victims.

Old time punishment for offenses at sea was most severe. The code of the time of Richard I. of England, drawn up for the government of his fleet on the crusades, provided "that whoso killed any person on shipboard should be tied with him that was slain and thrown into the sea. And if he killed him on the land he should in like manner be tied with the partie slain and be buried with him in the earth."

In Elizabeth's time a thief was to be ducked three times, towed ashore at the stern of a boat and marooned with a loaf of bread and a can of beer. Mutiny was punishable by the offender's being hanged by his heels "until his brains were beaten out against the shyppe's side."

The penalties imposed for sleeping on watch were progressive. For the first offense the man was to be "headed" with a bucket of water; on the next occasion he was to be strung up by his wrists and to have two buckets of water poured into his sleeves; the third time he would be loaded with weights and bound to the mast, and "for the fourthe time he was to be hanged to the boltsprite, with a can of beere and a biscorte of breade and a sharp knife, and so to hang and choose whether he would cutte himself down and fall into the sea or hange still and starve."

Among the rules issued by Raleigh for the governing of his South American expedition in 1617 was that no man should be allowed to gamble for his arms or clothes "on the pain of being disarmed and made a swabber of the ship." A general punishment for blasphemy at this time was for the offender to be bound to the main mast with an iron bit between his teeth, the alternative being a scraping of the tongue. All sorts of odd and frequently hideous punishments are to be found described in old manuscripts. In 1775 a man found drunk aboard or ashore was taken care of until the following morning, when in the presence of the ship's company he was presented with a pint of salt water, which he had to drink.

The dreaded "cat" is probably the best known of these old naval punishments. Whipping was provided for at least as long ago as the fifteenth century, and in Drake's time the regular trouncing of the ship's boys by the boatswain on Monday morning was regarded as the only means of insuring a fair wind for the rest of the week.—Chicago News.

Thrice Wrecked In One Week.

In 1883 as the schooner Albatross was driving east across the Banks in a murky storm she met her end from a low lying berg. Of her crew of ten only two escaped, having cut clear the dinghy and launched it safely. Next day they were picked up by the fishing schooner Energy, making for the Newfoundland coast. Driven south by bad weather, she sighted, two days later, the steamer Liddesdale, with a load of cotton. She agreed to take the castaways, and in closing with the Energy sank her, but saved her crew. Thirty-six hours later the Liddesdale herself went ashore near Cape Race and became a total loss. Thus the two men were wrecked three times in one week—berg, steamboat and rock.

An Underground Canal.

Between Worsley and St. Helens, in the north of England, is the most remarkable canal in the world. It is underground, from end to end, and is sixteen miles long. In Lancashire the coal mines are very extensive, half the country being undermined, and many years ago the Duke of Bridgewater's managers thought they could save money by transporting the coal underground instead of on the surface. The canal was constructed and the mines connected and drained at the same time. Ordinary canal boats are used, but the power is furnished by men. On the roof of the tunnel arch are cross pieces, and the men do the work of propulsion by lying on their backs on the coal and pushing with their feet against the crossbars on the roof.—Argonaut.

Mark Twain's Profanity.

William Dean Howells read the "Tom Sawyer" manuscript and thought it the best story he had ever read. Clemens consulted him regarding the use of a certain vigorous expletive. Howells advised that it be cut out. Clemens wrote back:

Mrs. Clemens received the mail this morning, and the next minute she lit into the study with danger in her eyes and this side and on her tongue: "Where is the profanity Mr. Howells speaks of? Here I had to absolutely cut out that I had left it out when reading the MS. to her. Nothing but utmost interposition got me out of this scrape with my scalp. Does your wife ever run across like that when you go a-fishing?"—Harper's.

Odorless

"Now, children," said the teacher, "who can tell me what the word 'odorless' means?"

Willie Jones was sure he knew.

"Well, Willie, what does it mean?"

"Odorless means without a scent," he piped.

"Right. Now who can give a sentence using the word correctly?" continued the teacher. "You may answer, Jimmie."

"Please, ma'am, when you are odorless you cannot ride in the trolley cars."—Youth's Companion.

HALLOWE'EN OBSERVED IN SAFE MANNER HERE

No Damage Done in Evening of Charleroi Celebration

MANY IN MASQUERADE

Costuming Varies From [illegible] portant Parade Arranged

Charleroi enjoyed a safe and sane celebration of Hallowe'en Thursday night. With that kind of practical joke which was conspicious by its absence nearly everybody was in masquerade. Hobgoblins were there to frighten witches with their slender broomsticks to bewitch ghosts, Indians, Persians, plain cowboys, cowgirls, the doughty Turk and angry Balkan, Uncle Sams, huge fathers and tiny mothers, boys with girls' clothes on—al these and more were clothes on—al these and more were to be seen. In every make-up there was a laugh.

Staid men folks and staid women folks coudn't resist the temptation to get into the fun. Charles O. Frye borrowed a big drum from John Jenkins and with the aid of a couple of lieutenants started a procession over the main streets of the town. The funny part of it was that he succeeded in making it go. A band said to be composed mainly of members of the Charleroi Italian band in masquerade, paraded the streets and secured a good following.

All told the celebration was a peach, a pippin, a glorious exuberant event. Without preparation or organization the affair went off in a characteristic fashion proving conclusively that Charleroi doesn't even have to go in for a celebration to have even one of the biggest kind.

SIX OF BILLS CUT ONE-THIRD BY GOVERNMENT

The man who likes to display a roll of money that looks like a rolling pin has trouble ahead, for from the end of 1913 all bills issued by the national treasury will be one-third smaller than the present size, which has been in vogue since the Civil war.

It will take about a year to make the 1,000 new plates that will be used, and when these are finished the new issue will be printed. It is estimated that the reduction in size will save the government $1,000,000 a year.

HUNTERS OUT EARLY TO GET FIRST GAME

With the relization that the early Nimrod gets the choice shots, hunters from all parts are gumshoeing the backwoods sections today for game. The game season opened today, it might be said, with a rush. The rush was to the country populated by rabbits, quail and other animals and birds that make good targets. Scores of hunters from along the Monongahela valley have made an advance into the Marianna region in this county and other sections that are equally good for hunting purposes and also into Greene county. Thursday night regardless of the fact that it was Hallowe'en the Pittsburg railroads stations were crowded with men and dogs who were anxious to make their getaway into the hills to be ready this morning for the first day's hunt. Numerous hunters have gone out from Charleroi and vicinity.

The game season today opens on English, Mongolian, Chinese and ringneck pheasants, rabbits, quail, ruffed grouse or pheasant, squirrel and wild turkey.

Approximate Loss From McMahon Fire $6,000--Was Voting Place--County Must Make Provisions for Election

Starting form unknown causes the McMahon school building situated at the head of Ninth street just outside Monessen borough was burned to the ground with all its contents this morning shortly after 3 o'clock enabling a small force of [illegible] Not only has school been brought to a sudden stop in McMahon but election affairs have become tangled, the school building being the polling place. The cause of the fire is unknown but authorities are secretly investigating.

The first alarm of fire was sounded at 3:15. By that time the flames had gained a great start. The fire department of Monessen got to the scene as rapidly as possible, but was not able to get a connection made until the building a frame structure was practically a wreck.

This morning it was stated that a bobble of oil had been found about the premises. This is taken to be significent by the authorities. The loss in the destruction of the building would approximate $4,000, with the contents valuel at $2,000. The fire started in the rear of the building according to one of the directors who was among the first on the scene.

The county authorities will make provisions for the voting place immediately, so that matters can be in readiness for next Tuesday.

According to arangements perfected by the Democratic National Committee tomorrow, Saturday, November 2, has been officially designated as "Wilson Rally Day." On that occasion all Democratic organizations throughout the United States are urged to hold rallies wherever possible and to get together for a final effort in behalf of their party. For this occasion Woodrow Wilson has issued a special message to the people of the United States be presented and read to all the clubs, organizations and wherever there may be assembled those who are interested in the election of Wilson and the success of the Dmocratic ticket.

In keping with the proclamation for the observance of "Wilson Day," the Charleroi Wilson and Marshall club will hold a special meeting at their headquarters on the third floor of the Masonic building, corner of McKean avenue and Fifth street tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. At this meeting Governor Wilson's message will be read by R. Dale Jolliffe, the secretary of the club and plans discussed for getting out the vote at the election. A cordial invitation is extended to all interested in the election of the Democratic ticket to attend, and this will in all probability be the final public rally of workers before the election.

Upon advice of his counsel, Acheson & Crumrine, the controller, John H. Moffit has disapproved the bill of J. C. Sutherland, county recorder, for $1,000 on account of the retranscribing of certain mortgage indices. The legality of the contract entered into with the recorded by the county commissioners, but not approved by the controller is questioned. It is likely that the matter will reach court in the form of a mandamus upon the county controller to show cause why he should not approve a warrant in favor of the recorder for the $1,000 on account of this re-transcribing.

Upon petition of the recorder the court recently handed down an opinion authorizing the retranscribing of certain mortgage indices in the recorder's office for the reason that the old indices had become worn out, and were in danger of falling to pieces. The court refused to fix any compensation for the work of retranscribing these indices, but left the matter with the commissioners and controller. A contract was drawn up by the commissioners and recorded, wherein the recorder was to be paid six and one-half cents a line for the work of retranscribing these indices.

This contract was put up to the controller and acting upon advice of counsel, he refused to approve the same. He holds that under the law the recorder himself is not entitled to any extra fee for this kind of work that he can simply supervise the work or exact a bond from persons who do the work—but that he cannot receive any extra compensation for the same. Considerable of the work has been done, and the recorder now wants $1,000 on account of the contract. The controller refuses to approve the warrant. He holds that having refused to approve the warrant, that would mean the approval of the contract. The controller also holds that competive bids should have been received for doing the work. Solicitor Baum has been out of town, but the commissioners will at once endeavor to have some ruling from the court.

There are also held up, by reason of disapproval by the controller, two bills of Sheriff R. G. Lutton for certain fees alleged due him. These two bills amount to $129 and $45, respectively. Acting upon advice of counsel, the controller disapproved the warrants for these sums, raising the point of the legality of the claims of the sheriff. It is likely that a candamus will be secured upon the controller in these cases. also and the question raised be put up to the court for a decision.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS TO EXEMPLIFY DEGREE

Two Thousand Visitors Expected to Come Here Sunday

WILL RUN SPECIAL CARS

Pittsburgers to be Here in Force--State Officials in Charge of Ritual

Several thousand Knights of Columbus from Pittsburg and various parts of Western Pennsylvania will gather in Charleroi Sunday when the Third Degree of the order will be conferred upon a class of 150 candidates from Monongahela Council of Pittsburg, Chartiers Council of Crafton, Washington and Charleroi Councils. These councils comprise the twenty-first district and the degree meeting will be in charge of District Deputy Supreme Knight Dr. R. A. Walsh, of Crafton. Grand Knight M. T. Crowley of Charleroi is the chairman on arrangements and will open the meeting at 2 o'clock.

The exemplification of the ritual will be by State Deputy M. J. McEnery of Philadelphia and his degree team at the Charleroi skating rink. The afternoon exercises will be conducted at 6 o'clock.

Following the conferring of the degree a banquet will be served in the Might auditorium. District Deputy A. S. McSwigan, of the third district at Pittsburg will be the toastmaster. He will be introduced by M. T. Crowley, grand knight of the Charleroi Council. There will be plates for 600. Toastmaster McSwigan has mapped out the following program for this banquet; "Catholic Citizenship," T. P. Sloan, chacellor Charleroi Council; "A Knight's Duty," T. F. Dunn, grand knight of Chartiers Council; "Chivalry," Judge A. B. Reid, of Duquesne Council; "Some Stray Thoughts," District Deputy M. J. McEnery; "Our Order," P. J. McArdle, grand knight Monongahela Council; "A Few Remarks," Patrick Yorke of Washington Council. Geo. P. Luther, a Pittsburg caterer, will prepare the banquet.

Special cars will be run to Charleroi by the Monongahela Council of Pittsburg; the Chartiers Council, the Duquesne Council; the Washington Council, the Allegheny Council and the Sharpsburg Council. Monessen, Braddock, McKeesport, Uniontown, Scottdale, Connellsville, Greensburg and other points in Western Pennsylvania will contribute to the crowd that will be here

PREPARE FOR FRAY WITH THE W. & J. FRESHMAN ELEVEN

A strong lineup will represent Charleroi in the football game to be played on the local field tomorrow afternoon between the Charleroi Independent football team and the Washington and Jefferson college freshmen. Capt. Frank Mangan and his men have been drilling hard for the fray. It is probable that Coach Alex Gray, the former State varsity captain will be in the lineup.

Doesn't Care For Himself

"There is not one item of personal interest or selfishness in the desire of President Taft to be returned to the presidential chair," said Gov. Tener after the Republican rally held here Wednesday night. "The last time I was with hom at Altoona a few weeks ago, I made it a point to ask the President as to his personal interest in his election.

"'I don't care a rap for myself whether I get elected or not,' was the answer the President gave. 'It is my desire because of my party that I be elected. Nothing more, indeed, I assure you.'"

ENTERTAIN AT COSTUME PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Jack were host and hostss to a pretty Hallowe'en costume party at their home at 230 Washington avenue last evening. All the guests were in costume and there was much guessing as well as merriment as to individual irentities until the time came for unmasking. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion and was in keeping with the Hallowe'en spirit. By means of special wiring electric jack-o-lanters shed a goiden glow of light while corn shocks stationed about the handsomely appointed dining room, where black cat and witch decorations with nuts, apples and a keg of cider on tap gave a realistic touch to the scene. Five hundred was the diversion of the evening, after which a Dutch lunch was served in picnic style. At each place were unique Hallowe'en favors, a witch for the ladies and an imp for the men. Appropriate Halowe'en favors were also awarded the players. It was a prettily arranged affair and the twenty or more guests who attended were most enjoyably entertained.

HOW EFFORT COUNTS.

The spontaneous and voluntary efforts of one or two citizens in organizing a parade of the "mummers" on the streets last evening shows how little is required to bring order out chaos and to concentrate and prolong the holiday spirit in rational and orderly channels. All that was necessary was for some one to get a drum, beat it and call to the masked and fantastically arrayed crowds to fall in. This was done with alacrity and a pleasing spectacle was acorded to the spectators, as well as opportunity afforded to the merry-makers to exhibit their costumes and give vent to their exubrience of spirits in a spectacular manner.

Some three years ago a sum of money was raised for the purpose of celebrating Hallowe'en in Charleroi. It was successful in point of attracting a crowd of "mummers" and masqueraders, but the disbursements of the funds and some of the regulations caused a slight dissatisfaction, and the effort was not repeated. Many were of the opinion that it cost too much, and since that time nothing has been done to organize or direct the carnival spirit that breaks out annually on Hallowe'en.

The experience of last night however, demonstrates that a veritable street carnival and parade can be organized at any time on such occasions without expense if only some one takes the lead. All that is required is a leader, with a drum or one or two musical instruments and the masked crowds will readily follow. This keeps the crowd moving in orderly channels, and prevents a too boisterous spirit in spots which is usually the case if the crowds congregate on such occasions in any one locality. All that is necessary hereafter to make a pleasing event of Hallowe'en is for a few citizens to get together previously and direct affairs and both masqueraders and spectators will get more pleasure and entertainment from the celebration.

TARIFF STILL VITAL.

A writer in the Philadelphia Press warns the people not to ignore the tariff as an issue, which is still vital to the interests of our state. The opponents of President Taft, he says, are making every effort in their power to belittle the effects of a protective tariff on our manufacturing interests [illegible] of our country, [illegible] is a detriment to our foreign trade and that the last panics originated under Republican administrations. Yet, when we closely study and ascertain the prosperity of our country in the different periods of the so-called revenue or low tariff and the high tariff periods, we find that invariably sooner or later the low tariff periods ended in a panic. She manufacturers closed their works or greatly reduced the wages of their employes, and the revenue of the Government fell off, creating a deficit, compelling the United States Government to borrow money to pay current expenses.

The United States always made more rapid progress, our treasury was more plethoric and our foreign trade increased faster under a protective tariff than under a so-called revenue tariff. Therefore it is to be hoped that the people and especially our working people, will be wise enough not to let themselves be deceived by the specious pleas of the wily free traders, and by the misrepresentations of the acts of President Taft, or by the demagogic talk and the false and malicious charges by Col. Roosevelt of the National Convention having defrauded him out of the Republican nomination for President.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

There is nothing very pathetic and nothing very ludicrous either in seeing a professional house mover pick up a house and, figuratively, carry it off. To see a dark-faced beauty from a Southern Europe home pick up what for needs of convenience in description might be termed a house, gently put it in position on her head and carry it off is both a pathetic and ludicrous sight. Pathetic because the poor woman has to perform the arduous task instead of her dutiful better half; ludicrous because of the preposterousness and uniqueness of the thing.

Yet yesterday afternoon a woman was seen doing that very thing. Short and stout she was one whom sensible husband would take care not to anger. She got her "house," a big box nearly five square feet at a store somewhere up street. It was a heavy affair. She didn't mind it and with an ease that indicated long training at that kind of thing swung it to the logical place to carry which in her estimation was her head. Then she trudged down street, keeping the box in position with a muscular grip on eother side.

She seemed to think her performance nothing unusual. Perhaps it wasn't to her, used to the ways of the country from which she came. But the sight was one that tok the breath away from all beholders here.

With his best girl clinging to his arm a youth who had adopted the latest fashion of mustache, that cute little upper lip adornment with the sideburn attachment, meandered down street to see the Hallowe'en masqueraders. Apparently he was very proud of his accomplishment—said accomplishment being that of raising the mustache—and the vainglorious way in which he handled himself was almost painful.

He would have been all right perhaps if he hadn't had to pass a drug store where a group of his friends were gathered. The mustache was too much for them.

"Hey.——, take it off, we know yuh," called one.

The youth blushed. And so did the lovely creature by his side.

"Oh wasn't that rude of him," she said.

Then concealing her laughter she murmured. "But——, won't you plese take that funny thing off. I don't like it."

Toady the mustache is conspicious by its absence.

GREAT HORN SPOONS.

The Ones That Are Made by Natives of Southern Alaska.

Horns of the Rocky mountain sheep the bighorn and the mountain goat are made into dishes, ladies and spoons. Some of these are carved, while others are both carved and inlaid with shell. The decoration is sometimes geometric, but often a conventional representation of animal forms. This is especially true of the spoons of the Indians on the coast of northern British Columbia and southern Alaska. A few of these spoons are so large, so wonderfully artistic and so well made from the horn of the rare Rocky mountain sheep that even a moderately good one may appropriately be called a "great horn spoon." These are of a rich golden yellow color. By far the greater number of horn spoons in this same region are made of the horn of the mountain goat, and these are black. A few have black handles of goat horn and golden bowls of sheep horn. All these handles are usually carved to represent traditional or mythical men, animals or monsters belonging to the lore of the individual family, just as among our people silver spoons bear the family monogram.—Detroit Free Press.

Church Tower Belfries.

Probably you have noticed that the openings in the belfry of a church are usually filled with a number of slanting boards, sometimes covered with lead. These are improperly called louvres, and many persons imagine that they are so arranged as to keep out the rain. The right name for these slats is abatsons, a word that means to throw down.

Their use is not to keep out the rain, because the wet does not hurt the bells at all and rain can beat in through the openings very easily. They are designed to turn the sound of the bells downward, so that persons on the ground can hear them better. In the middle ages some of these abatsons were beautifully carved and decorated.—New York Press.

Extract from statement of Mr. Roosevelt, dated November 5, 1904:

"... next I shall have served three and one-half years and this three and one-half years constitutes my first term. The wise custom which limits the President to two terms regards the substance and not the form. Under no circumstances will I be a candidate for or accept another nomination."

"What Washington would not take, and Grant could not get, no man shall have."

ABUSE.

(Editorial in the New York World.)

Standing before a committee of the United States Senate yesterday, Medill McCormick, a rich young man who has helped to finance and manage the Roosevelt campaign, charged that the murderous assault on Mr. Roosevelt was incited by the "assassins of character assassins and liars like Charles D. Hilles," who was formerly secretary to President Taft, and is now Chairman of the Republican National Committee.

The rantings of a half-baked young person like Mr. McCormick would be of no importance if they were not so completely in harmony with the conduct of the Roosevelt managers since Mr. Roosevelt was shot by a madman. Dixon, Pinchot, McCormick, Cochems and a whole chorus of demagogues have been seeking to inflame the public mind against better men than themselves and create the impression that Schrank's insane deed was inspired by political "abuse" of Mr. Roosevelt.

Now, it happens that there has been a good deal of abuse in this campaign, but most of it originated with Theodore Roosevelt and his followers. No other candidate for President ever indulged in such sweeping denunciation of his opponents. No other candidate for President ever attacked a President as Mr. Roosevelt has attacked Mr. Taft. No other candidate for President ever appealed so frankly to the passion and frenzy of his audiences. To select a few of many examples:

Day after day Mr. Roosevelt has compared President Taft to a "crook," to a "thief," to a "burglar," to a "pirate," to a "pickpocket," to a "receiver of stolen goods," and Hiram Johnson, Mr. Roosevelt's associate on the ticket, has traveled from one end of the country to the other calling President Taft "the most humiliating figure in American history." Even the day that he was shot Mr. Roosevelt denounced the conduct of the Governor of Illinois as "infamous" because Governor Deneen refused to support Mr. Roosevelt on a third party ticket.

June 3 Mr. Roosevelt said of President Taft that "high-minded and honorable men would refuse to accept delegates" such as Mr. Taft had gained in Ohio.

June 8 he said that "again and again we have sent to the penitentiary election officials for deeds not one whit worse morally than was done by the members of the national committee" in seating two Taft delegates from Alabama.

June 11 he declared that Mr. Taft's attitude toward the presidency "comes dangerously near being treason."

June 15 he asserted that the contest between himself and Mr. Taft for the nomination was a "fight between honesty and dishonesty."

June 16 he issued a statement that rang with the words "theft" and "stealing" and "fraud."

June 17 in a speech he spoke of the "naked thefts" of the national committee and the men who had "earned Mr. Taft's gratitude by stealing for him." He said a majority of the national committee had "practiced political theft in every form from highway robbery to petit larceny."

When Mr. Taft was finally nominated he publicly insulted him as "the beneficiary of successful fraud," and his delight on his recent Western trip was to describe the President of the United States as "a dead cock in the pit."

As for Woodrow Wilson, Mr. Roosevelt has branded him as a "Tory" and as the nominee of the bosses, and in his recent speech in Chicago he devoted most of his time to inflaming the passion of foreign-born voters against Governor Wilson on a basis of a paragraph in Governor Wilson's "History of the American People." The whole third party campaign has been a campaign of violence, abuse and vilification for which we can find no justification.

We mention these matters now not only because of the scandalous and disgogic attempt of Mr. Roosevelt's political managers to bring about a reign of terror against everybody who has opposed his election. Mr. McCormick's shocking assault upon Mr. Hilles is a fair sample of their manners and methods which cannot be allowed to go unchallenged. It is on a par with Mr. Cochem's assault on Mr. Bryan as an "oratorical cretin" whose statements are "abominable," "ghoulish," all because Mr. Bryan protested against the coloring of non-partisan capital out of the murderous attack of a maniac.

Mr. Roosevelt has [illegible] of "abuse." If anybody [illegible]

RAINBOW IS A BACK NUMBER

"The rainbow isn't in it now with the socks worn by men," said one [illegible] guard to his neighbor on the platform and he continued:

"Just glance in there, will you, and let your eye range along at the men's feet. Purple, green, yellow, blue, red, gray, pink and black socks, and socks of one color with spots of another and socks with stripes in 'em and cross-bars and socks of various colors mixed, and I'll bet with all those colors that knock heck out of the rainbow you see that one pair there with no color in 'em plainest of all? Sure, it's that pair of white socks, the only pair in the car; and you might travel here day after day and not see another pair.

"They tell me, and I can just remember a little of it myself, that there was a time when men didn't wear anything but white socks. White socks, and maybe some gray, and then they came to black, but who'd have thought they'd ever come to this? I tell you—" and he broke off to yell: "Umpty-ump stree—t! Umpty-ump stree—t!"

"The rainbow's a back number now," he added.

Passing of the Spare Room.

Fifty years ago nearly every house in New York City had one or more guest chambers. Today half her inhabitants rise at an unusual hour to permit their beds to be turned into parlor furniture or piano fortes. If Cousin Mary or Cousin John realized all this as, of course, no one who has not lived in a great city can really realize it, they would understand better just why they had not been invited to visit Tom's folks. It is not because Tom and his wife wish to slight Mary and her husband that they have not invited them to visit them in the city, but because positively the city cousins have not enough more room in their tiny apartment for even so much as a canary bird. On the other hand, John and his wife probably have a great twelve-room house in the country, a house whose latch-string is known to be always hanging out.—Woman's Home Companion.

Luxury on Shipboard

Sumptuously furnished vessels were known centuries ago. The ship that Archimedes designed for Hiero II., king of Syracuse, not only was wonderfully decorated—the story of the Iliad was told in marquetry, but there were flower beds on the promenade deck, a gymnasium, staterooms with three beds, a library, bathroom with hot and cold water stables and horses, fish ponds and many fair rooms paved with agate and precious stones. And this vessel was designed as a carrier of wheat. It was first named the Syracusan, but afterward the Alexandrian. Archimedes wrote a poem in its honor, and Hiero, in gratitude and appreciation, sent him a thousand measures of wheat and thoughtfully prepaid the expense. Moschion gives a detailed description of this ship. Then there was the Egyptian vessel, the joy of Ptolemy Philopator, with galleries and promenades, a temple of Venus with her statue, a drinking hall, belvederes, a grotto the sides of which were decorated with precious stones set in ornaments of gold.—Boston Herald.

HIDEOUS PUNISHMENTS.

Murderers Were Once Buried Alive Tied to Their Victims.

Old time punishment for offenses at sea was most severe. The code of the time of Richard I. of England, drawn up for the government of his fleet on the crusades, provided "that whoso killed any person on shipboard should be tied with him that was slain and thrown into the sea. And if he killed him on the land he should in like manner be tied with the partie slain and be buried with him in the earth."

In Elizabeth's time a thief was to be ducked three times, towed ashore at the stern of a boat and marooned with a loaf of bread and a can of beer. Mutiny was punishable by the culprit's being hanged by his heels "until his brains were beaten out against the shyppe's side."

The penalties imposed for sleeping on watch were progressive. For the first offense the man was to be "headed" with a bucket of water; on the next occasion he was to be strung up by his wrists and to have two buckets of water poured into his sleeves; the third time he would be loaded with weights and bound to the mast, and "for the fourthe time he was to be hanged to the boltsprite, with a can of beere and a biscotte of breade and a sharp knife, and so to hang and choose whether he would cutte himself down and fall into the sea or hange still and starve."

Among the rules issued by Raleigh for the governing of his South American expedition in 1617 was that no man should be allowed to gamble for his arms or clothes "on the pain of being disarmed and made a swabber of the ship." A general punishment for blasphemy at this time was for the offender to be bound to the main mast with an iron bit between his teeth, the alternative being a scraping of the tongue. All sorts of odd and frequently hideous punishments are to be found described in old manuscripts. In 1775 a man found drunk aboard or ashore was taken care of until the following morning, when in the presence of the ship's company he was presented with a pint of salt water, which he had to drink.

The dreaded "cat" is probably the best known of these old naval punishments. Whipping was provided for at least as long ago as the fifteenth century, and in Drake's time the regular trouncing of the ship's boys by the boatswain on Monday morning was regarded as the only means of insuring a fair wind for the rest of the week.—Chicago News.

Thrice Wrecked in One Week.

In 1893 the schooner Albatross was driving east across the Banks in a murky storm she met her end from a low lying berg. Of her crew of ten only two escaped, having cut clear the dinghy and launched it safely. Next day they were picked up by the fishing schooner Energy, making for the Newfoundland coast. Driven south by bad weather, she sighted, two days later, [illegible] cotton. She agreed to take the castaways, and in closing with the Energy sank her, but saved her crew. Thirty-six hours later the Liddesdale herself went ashore near Cape Race and became a total loss. Thus the two men were wrecked three times in one week—berg, steamboat and rock.

An Underground Canal.

Between Worsley and St. Helens, in the north of England, is the most remarkable canal in the world. It is underground, from end to end, and is sixteen miles long. In Lancashire the coal mines are very extensive, half the country being undermined, and many years ago the Duke of Bridgewater's managers thought they could save money by transporting the coal underground instead of on the surface. The canal was constructed and the mines connected and drained at the same time. Ordinary canal boats are used, but the power is furnished by men. On the roof of the tunnel arch are cross pieces, and the men do the work of propulsion by lying on their backs on the coal and pushing with their feet against the crossbars on the roof.—Argonaut.

Mark Twain's Profanity.

William Dean Howells read the "Tom Sawyer" manuscript and thought it the best story he had ever read. Clemens consulted him regarding the use of a certain vigorous expletive. Howells advised that it be cut out. Clemens wrote back:

Mrs. Clemens received the mail this morning, and the next minute she lit into the study with danger in her eyes and this demand on her tongue: "Where is the profanity Mr. Howells speaks of?" Then I had to miserably confess that I had left it out when reading the MS to her. Nothing but utmost inspired lying got me out of this scrape with my scalp. Does your wife give you nits like that when you go a little one sided?—Harper's.

Odorless.

"Now, children," said the teacher, "who can tell me what the word 'odorless' means?"

Willie Jones was sure he knew.

"Well, Willie, what does it mean?"

"Odorless means without a scent," he piped.

"Right. Now who can give a sentence using the word correctly?" continued the teacher. "You may answer, Jimmie."

"Please, ma'am, when you are odorless you cannot ride in the trolley cars."—Youth's Companion
